

PHOTOS TO THE EDITOR

CAMBODIA

right: Makara, a mythical creature, half elephant, half fish.
Banteay Srei

below: War elephant. Bayon opposite top: Apsaras, celestial maidens. Angkor Wat opposite bottom: Giant stone faces, believed to be representations of Lokeshvara, combined with the features of King Jayavarman VII, the last great ruler of Angkor before it fell into decline. Lokeshvara is revered in Mahayana Buddhism as the Bodhisattva of compassion. Angkor Thom

photos: Julie Kandyba

Q: Why didn't the turkey cross the road?

A: Because it was petrified with fear.

Perth, Ontario, Canada
photo: John Scott

Bautzen, Germany
photo: Frazer Muirhead

stone fruit, St. Helena, California photo: Michel Giannesini